Methods to Prevent Morning Madness

Mornings are busy and sometimes stressful in many households. Some children and adolescents do dawdle, thereby increasing parental stress to sometimes intolerable levels. If your child or adolescent is causing morning madness in your home, consider combining some of the following methods:

1. Stay Calm – Morning madness can bring out the worst in all of us! Avoid threats, emotional statements and yelling. This only makes the situation worst.
2. Talk about it – Enlist your youngster's support to find solutions to morning conflict.
3. Set up a morning schedule – Post the schedule in the child's bedroom and/or refrigerator.
4. Set out the clothing the night before – Encourage your child to select and set out clothes before going to bed.
5. Ensure adequate sleep – It is important to get your child to bed at a regular time and up early to get ready without undue stress.

Winter Weather

Winter weather is here! It is wonderful to see so many students dressed in warm clothing as the temperature has changed quickly. The Community Council has determined that students will be indoors when the temperature outside is below 20 degrees or extreme snow or rain is falling. We use the Weather Bug website to determine what the temperature is outside considering the wind chill factor. In the morning, students in grades 2nd -6th will go to the gym, and students in grades K and 1st will go to the library beginning at 8:10 a.m.
