

COMMUNICATION CONCURRENT ENROLLMENT

Communication 1010: ELEMENTS OF EFFECTIVE COMMUNICATION (CM)

Communication 1020: PRINCIPLES OF PUBLIC SPEAKING (CM)

Effective communication is frequently cited as one of the most important elements contributing to corporate and personal success. This course is designed to help you learn the skills necessary to become a competent communicator. Students will learn communication theory, principles, and practice of communication behavior in the interpersonal, group problem-solving, interviewing in the workplace, and public-speaking contexts. This course will prepare you to interpret and apply verbal and nonverbal communication in various life contexts, responsibly create effective messages and evaluate the communication of others. By the end of this course, students will see why learning about communication is so vital to everyday life.
