

Week 9 Study Guide

Corral Coral Choral Chorale	The ___ or the _____ that makes a ___ enclosure, especially for animals The tiny animals and their tiny skeletons that build oceanic _____ A _____ or _____ – a group of singers that perform together A sacred piece of music, usually by Bach
Inverse Taking the Inverse	The _____ operation in Math. You do the _____ operation, like _____ is the opposite of subtraction, because you want to get $1x$ all by itself _____ on one side of the equation. Then you will know the answer to your puzzle.
Probability	In math, you calculate the relative possibility that an event will happen. You express this by making a _____ of the total number of heads (or tails) out of the total number of tries (possible occurrences). You can figure out the relative possibility that someone will win. You make a ratio of the total number of winning rock, paper, scissors games out of the total number of tries. In casual English, you think there is a good _____ that something will happen. When you see these clouds, you know there is a strong _____ that it will rain.
Range	In statistics, you have a _____ number & you subtract the _____ number from it, because you care about the limit of your possibilities... it's the _____. In regular math, it is all the possible _____ from your function machine. In English, it also means *things _____ (*archers, mountains, the place where they line up), how far *things can go (*vehicles, tones of voices, emotions), a place where things eat grass, and the cook stove with burners!
Strategy	You make a _____ to help you win or solve a problem. You have to know before you go (to Tokyo!)
Symbol	In math, this is a _____ that represents a big idea, such as an equal sign = meaning the two sides of the equation are _____. A *thing represents or _____ for another _____ *ideas or persons that suggest another meaning
Theme	These are the important _____ messages the author needs you to _____, the heart of the important ideas in your book. It can also mean the inspiration, big idea, short melodies with variations that introduce a feeling or a character in scores, the message about life, society, human nature, moral ambiguity, the conflicts we all face...
Visualize	A reading/thinking strategy: you _____ a _____ or movie in your _____. It's almost like you _____ a photo, a movie or real life. You go there (where you are reading about).